Community Loyalty the Leaven.

A little leaven may leaven the whole loaf. It's the same with a community. A little community loyalty is bound to grow until it becomes a majority. The day of minority rule has paased---or is so swiftly passing that its control is lost. With every community a majority for community loyalty--that's national loyalty minus the greed of selfishness and special privilege.

UNION SCHOOLS EXHIBIT

By A. H. Townsend.

What shall we say? To those who were present at the exhibit of school work on Friday, May 27th, in both the High and Grammar School buildings, it is not necessary to say anything. They saw. And having seen, know. To those who were not present, words are inadequate of expressing the degree of excellence shown in the work on exhibition. You may read and re-read about the beauties of Big Basin but you can never really know its impressive granduer until you go and see it for yourself.

So with the school work exhibit of our Union Schools— we can tell you it was a success, for we saw. Those who did climb the hill to visit the exhibit can also tell you it was a success, for they saw.

To go into a detailed description of each individual class of work shown would require more space than Community has at its disposal this week, so in cutting it short we wish to have it distinctly understood that we do not do so with any lack of appreciation of the loyal efforts of both pupils and teachers to show the real value of school work as applied to the growing life of the community.

And let us emphasize the fact that this exhibit contained not one thing that did not come as a part of the regular daily school work, and we believe its degree of excellence could not have been better had special effort been made for a show occasion.

To the grown-ups of the school community, who find school taxes burdensome and school interest irksome, the exhibit could be a revelation. It could bring home to them the fact that of all the investments, the cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, candy, carbonated drinks, (for we have no other now) chewing gum, etc.,etc., that we pay for without a murmer of protest, all put together can never give us the real dividends to be drawn from our schools.

But we digress. It is the exhibit we have in mind and a tour through the rooms in both buildings where exhibits were to be seen brought revelations of the practical impressions made upon the minds of the pupils—as indicated by the work, all of which illustrated the ability of the growing mind to comprehend the meaning of instruction and broaden and develop understanding according to the degree possessed by each individual mentality.

All of the exhibits had special qualities of excellence that could not fail to inspire a feeling of pride —a just pride in the mental development of our children. To those of us who are older, whose school opportunities were limited, it made us wish that we could be children again in order to have the present day school advantages denied us in our childhood, and we feel like putting forth greater effort to still further develop school opportunities for the boys and girls of today who must be the men and women of tomorrow.

When the tour of inspection had been made by all present a delightful half hour of entertainment awaited the visitors in the natural amphitheatre between the High School building and the manual training shop. Here a stage had been erected in Nature's shady bower, encompassed by the inspirtion of out door life, where 'The Maker of Dreams' a fantasy significant of real life, was presented by students of the High School, which brought home to each listener the force of the fact that it so often happens when we have traveled the world over in search of the great happiness of life we come back to the place from whence we started and find it there—waiting for us all the time, only we did not know enough to recognize it.

The entertainment started with Dr. Hoag making a few timely remarks which he concluded by saying he had been asked to introduce Miss Cecil M. Davis, County Superintendent of Schools, and if there was any one present who did not already know Miss Davis, he took great pleasure in introducing her. This was a thought worth grasping —why should we not all know each other so it would not be necessary to be introduced over and over again.

Miss Davis, although she did not 'come prepared' to make a speech, said a few things in her earnest, sincere manner, about the development of "your children—our children" and urged a united interest bteween parents and schools, very strongly emphasizing the spirit of service— community service. Each individual is so much a part of the whole that community service cannot be working to its highest degree of efficiency until each individual takes an active part in all the activities of the commqnity.

There is the whole secret— a community interest uniting a community service.

Advice of Kaufman

DON'T give a rap when they chaff with you.
Don't care a snap when they laugh at you.
Every idea the world has ever gained
Was scouted and hooted and jeered and profaned.
The multitude never takes stock in a notion
Until it's established or plainly in motion.
The price of ambition is heavy with hurt.
You can't find a new way to fashion a shirt,
Build ships, houses, motors—make paper or light
Without finding millions to say it's not right.
They'll check and retard you and discount the facts.
They'll sneer at your blueprints, your models and tracts.
They'll bruise and abuse you until you succeed,
But they'll pay your own price when you have what they need.

"Robinson Crusoe's" Musket.

The musket said to have been given to Alexander Selkirk when he was put ashore on the island of Juan Fernandez, 400 miles off the Chilean coast, has been going the rounds of British museums.

It was Selkirk's adventures upon which was based De Foe's famous story, "Robinson Crusoe." The musket is inscribed with the name of "A Selkirk Largo, 1771." It was purchased by Randolph Berens for $6.25, but the owner has insured it for $10,000.

Selkirk owned a tavern near Clapham, but died in 1726 at sea as a lieutenant aboard a naval vessel.

We then went into the sheriff's office again and were shown many of the weapons which had been taken from prisoners. There were also curios which had been made by prisoners while in jail.

After leaving the sheriff's office we went upstairs to the Superior Court room and jurist room. While we were in the court room, Judge Knight explained the work of the court. He also told of the way juvenile cases are taken care of. From the court room he took us into his private office in which he has a whole set of all the laws ever passed by the Legislature of California. We went into the court reporter's room and saw her notebooks in which she puts down in shorthand everything that takes place in the court room, also some of the notes she had transcribed.

Judge Knight took us the Law Library in which are kept all decisions rendered by the courts of the United States since the Revolution.

We then went down stairs and visited the meeting of the Board of Supervisors. Women from different clubs of the county were there asking the Supervisors to give them an apportionment of $1,500.00 for a home demonstration.

CALIFORNIA'S GOOD ROADS

As man's alloted time
Is but threescore years and ten,
When the roads are all made fine,
There'll be no one riding then.
When the autos smoothly glide.
There'll be no one left to ride,
They're sleeping in the valley,
Or on the green hillside.

Enjoyed a Picnic.

In spite of rain a number of members of the Ladies Aid of the Methodist church, and the pastor, Rev. Withrow, spent Friday, May 20, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Brimblecom who lives up the San Lorenzo river.

Boxes and baskets held a generous supply of most delicious "eats" which were intended to be partaken of under the magnificent redwood which still stands near the river, but "Dame Nature" ordained otherwise. As the rain continued falling, an indoor picnic was enjoyed.

The Brimblecom home was first built in the late sixties, and contains many family relics and heirlooms such as a wonderful inlaid table from China obtained in very early times, a miniature "Baby Grand" that traveled around the Horn and finally reached its present destination by being carried over the San Lorenzo River across a fallen redwood, the only bridge. This piano was the first in this section.

Then there was some unique silver, also, a most interesting book about the early settlers of this county.

The ladies were so interested that they almost forgot to come home, but an impudent "tin-lizzie's" honk-honk at the door summoned the visitors to depart. They had enjoyed to the utmost the good-fellowship of a picnic in the country and the respite from usual tasks.

Many Attend Exhibit.

The school work exhibited by the Grammar and High Schools last Friday afternoon was very commendable in every way comparing most favorably with exhibits of schools many times larger, not only relatively but actually.

The primary department of the grammar school had a display of illustrated fairy tales and many other exhibits of the childrens handiwork.

In the intermediate room was an interesting display of art work and art books portraying the children of other lands besides many other examples of the children's work.

In the upper grade room the product map work was the most striking of the many pieces on exhibit. There was also a cooking and woodwork display.

The decorative effort of the Grammar School children was quite remarkable and all the rooms were in excellent taste.

At the High School one of course found a different kind of school effort being departmental and special. The exhibits of the art, printing, mechanical drawing, woodwork, commercial, home economics, and science departments showed a degree of excellence that caused much favorable comment. The scheme of floral decoration thruout the rooms was in keeping and most beautiful.

Delightful punch and cookies made by the cooking department were served to the guests.

At 3 o'clock the little fantasy, "The Maker of Dreams", an offering of the English Department was staged in a natural open air theatre. This little act was a jewel of it's kind--- the costumes, setting, and interpretation being nigh perfect. Those taking part in the play were Ida Swarthout, Wallace Pearce, Annie Amos and June Williams as herald.

The play was preceeded by a few remarks of welcome by Dr. Hoag of the High School Board and a short but inspirational talk on school and community spirit and co-operation by Miss Cecil Davis, County Superintendent of Schools.

A large gathering was present representing the entire Union District.

It is said to be unsafe to say anything about playing baseball to the married men of Ben Lomond. The married men and the single men tried conclusions again on the Wykoff dimond last Sunday and while the married men were victors in a score of 16 to 12, they were so badly used up that they have not got back into working condition yet It is said the members of the married men's team have resigned, declaring that it is "never again" for them while those who say they feel all right are called hard names, or at least given the shorter and uglier interpretation of their statement.

The regular team will play Boulder Creek Sunday.
